The numbering of claims is not in accordance with 37 CFR 1.126 which requires the original numbering of the claims to be preserved throughout the prosecution. When claims are canceled, the remaining claims must not be renumbered. When new claims are presented, they must be numbered consecutively beginning with the number next following the highest numbered claims previously presented (whether entered or not).

Misnumbered claims 41-71 have been renumbered 29-59.

The request for canceling claims 30-40 in the preliminary amendment was not entered because these claims were not present in the instant application.

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claims <sup>6</sup>28-59 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as containing subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention.

In the instant specification and claims, it appears that the second zone is separated from the first zone by the membrane, however, the membrane liquid water or water vapor to pass therethrough, thus, the water in the first zone would pass through the membrane to reach the mixture of chlorite and acid forming component and when they get in contact, chlorine dioxide would be formed, thus, the device as claimed appears to be transient, not as a permanent device.

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless --

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 26, 28-34, 39-40, 48 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by CN 1,104,610 using Derwent abstract 1997-311,227 for the English abstract.

CN '610 discloses a bag for generating chlorine dioxide used to disinfect drinking water, fruit and vegetables, which is manufactured by steps including (1) melting Chinese wax, stearic acid, bees wax or paraffin wax; (ii) adding sodium chlorite to form microcapsules; (iii) mixing the dry tartaric acid or oxalic acid particles; and (iv) placing the mixture into a cloth bag (note English abstract). The cloth bag is considered as the claimed water insoluble membrane. When the bag is placed in water, the bag is considered as the second zone and the water is considered as the first zone. Since the tartaric acid as used in CN '610 is the same as the one used in the claimed invention, the pH of the tartaric acid when dissolved in water would inherently be below about 5 as required in the instant claim 39 and the produced aqueous solution of chlorine dioxide would inherently have the same pH as required in the instant claim 40.

Art Unit: 1754

The bag containing the mixture of wax, sodium chlorite and tartaric acid as disclosed in CN '610 anticipates the claimed device.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 49-59 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over CN '610.

The CN '610 discloses that the wax and the chlorite were formed into microcapsules, however, no size was disclosed.

However, the microcapsules as disclosed in CN '610 can be considered as tablets, powders, granules, pellets or agglomerates depending on its size and shape, especially because a wax (i.e. a binder) was used. It would have been obvious to one ordinary skill in the art to optimize the size of the microcapsules of CN '610 in order to obtain the best results.

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
